THE CHICAGO DERBY.

Morello Won by a Length and a Half, in the Fast Time of 2:10.

CHICAGO, June 17 .- The great Morello won the Chicago Derby to-day, in the presence of twelve thousand people. The Hawthorne track was as fast as it gets in midsummer, the weather perfect, and all the conditions for the race favorable. The time is faster by three seconds than the distance, one mile and a quarter, has ever been covered on this sandy path. Of the eight horses named last night to start, three were scratched, including Edward Corrigan's Joe Murphy. Morello was made favorite in the betting at odds of 1 to 4, while there was some play on Cushing's Boundless at 44 to 1. The others had little backing, except in the place betting. Morello was loudly cheered when he appeared on the track. Starter Chinn's flag fell at the first line-up, the start being good. Ingomar had a slight advantage, with Boundless and Morello in the rear. Miller held a stout rein on the favorite and kept him back, but Knnz took the willing Boundless out in front, and the Cushing colt was leading by a length at the stand, followed in order by Ingomar, Henry Young, The King and Morello. There was little change in this order in the run to the quarter, the pace being quite lively. The crowd was intensely interested, and there were excited shouts for Boundless, the leader. Nearing the half, however, Kunz, on Boundless, held the coit back into the bunch, and Morello, at one touch of the spurs, moved from last place to second, being checked as soon as he was well lapped on the leader, Ingomar. Then Kunz shot Boundless for-ward once more, and he was leading by a length at the three-quarters and running apart and next to the outer rail. From that out the race was between Morello and Boundless. The latter was leader by a neck after they had rounded into the stretch, but Morello passed him and won under a strong pull by a length and a half. Boundless swerved and was badly handled near the finish, but beat Ingomar four lengths for the place. It was the general opinion that had Boundless had a capable lookey. Morello would have been forced jockey Morello would have been forced considerably to win. Summary:

Time, 1:174. Lumplighter the Suburban Favorite. New York, June 17 .- It is seldom that racing men can form such pronounced opinions regarding the winning chances of certain horses for a great race as they have this year for the Suburban handicap in advance of the day of the race. Every man having any connection or interest in racing seems confident that he can pick the winner, and that, too, strange as it may seem, while nearly all admit the race to be an open event, with a possibility for any of several candidates winning. By far the greater number of the "horsemen" think that Lamplighter is sure to go under the wigner of next Tuesday's great event. but still Charade, Banquet, Dr. Hasbrouck, Raceland and Leonahosta friends. The sum of $5,500 was then appropriated to put the home in proper condition.

The question of a separate scale for female compositors came up for extended consideration. A separate scale is demanded by the Boston union, where there are over one thousand nonunion female compositors. The wish of the Boston union is to organize these women upon a lower scale of wages. The opposition, led by delegate Miss Belle Pierson, of New Albany, demanded the same scale for women as for men. The matter was referred to the executive council by a vote of 87 to 85. Miss Pierson then withdrew from the floor of the convention, claiming that women delegates had no place in the convention. The most important business transacted at the closing aession was the adoption of a resolution declaring that no one should be admitted to the Childs-Drexel Home unless he had been a member of the union for five years.

SLEEPY MARSHAL BAZAINE.

Overpowering Somnolence of the Man Who Gave Metz to the Germans. Paris Letter to London Telegraph.

A curious and apparently original anec-dote about the late Marshal Bazzine is re-lated to-day. It refers to the sleepy habits of the man who delivered Metz to the Germans. The author of the anecdote is Lieut. Eymard, who was permanent officer of the guard in the house at Versailles where the Marshal was under arrest while awaiting his court-martial. One day Madame Bazaine, a Mexican by birth, came to M. Eymara and asked him to be good enough to receive Queen Isabella of Spain, who was expected in the afternoon. Her Majesty intended, it appears, to pay a visit to the prisoner. At about a quarter past 1 o'clock the Queen arrived, accompanied by her son, afterwards Alfonso XII, and her two daughters. M. Eymard went to meet the royal party, and, as the awini onense of shakin Queen's hand a l'Anglaise, instead of kissing it respectfully. The Queen uttered a discontented cry of astonishment, but she had another surprise in store for her. The lieutenant of the guard went in to apprise Marshal Bazaine of the royal visit, expecting to find him ready for it. The Marshal was, however, having his forty winks, and, although violently shaken by the officer,

She did not express astonishment, but anger, and, rushing to where her husband was, upbraided him as he woke in the most withering terms. She told him that his soporiforous habits were deplorable and detestable, and that in order to mask them people had to be allowed to say unchecked that he drank. Mme. Bazaine thus scolded her husband for several moments within the hearing of the Lieutenant, who went away wondering if the Marshal's extraordinary habit of suddenly falling asleep had not contributed to bring about greater disasters than the disappointment She did not express astonishgreater disasters than the disappointment of her most Catholic Majesty and the anger of Mme.
